

Dogs Die in Hot Cars

Please
leave
your
pooch
at home!

The temperature in a parked car can climb to 120 degrees in 30 minutes when the outside temperature is only 75, even if windows are partially open. An animal can quickly suffer brain damage or die from heatstroke or suffocation when trapped in high temperature.

Statute: § 353-d. Confinement of companion animals in vehicles: extreme temperatures If the owner of an animal suffering in an overheated car can't be located promptly, the animal can be removed by a humane society agent or a police officer. It's a criminal offense.

www.NY-PetRescue.org